Office—Temple, Main and New High.

THERE is some beautiful reading in this week's MIRROR for the especial edification of subscribers to that blue-ribbon sweepstakes weekly.

IT was the Cleveland Sentinel, instead of the Chicago Star, that worked off the lively letter from which we quoted yesterday.

W. H. BALLHACHE has retired from the Colton Semi-Tropic, and Editor Peacock now struts about as the sole proprietor. No more Bailhach-ing about that establishment!

THE House Judiciary Committee has projected a report to accompany the Edmunds Anti-polygamy bill, which is in the nature of a "sockdolager." The telegraph furnishes diagram and specifications.

THE printers, in International Union assembled at Pittsburg, yesterday, did a graceful thing in recognition of the generosity shown by Messrs. Childs and Drexel towards the craft. They (the typos) resolved to set 'em up all along the line.

THE Senate yesterday passed Beck's bill prohibiting members of Congress from accepting retainers from railroad companies which have received land grants and pecuniary aid from the Government, and then it reconsidered its action and the bill.

THE TIMES supplement to-day contains half a dozen letters from neighboring points—Florence, Orange, Anaheim, Wilmington, San Gabriel, Alhambra and Sierra Madre—besides other reading matter and various picturesque advertisements, first among which are the MIRROR sewing-machine chromes. By the way, if you want a good thing in the shape of a sewing-machine, and a better thing in the shape of a fine weekly newspaper, just thread your way through the detailed and accurate description of these premium machines, and then you will be prepared to send us your name, your mother-in-law's name, your money and your thanks—awfully.

THE Boston Journal says: "The season has been so progressive this year that the supply of the usual wild flowers for Memorial Day was much limited. In some places it was difficult to find a sufficient number of wild flowers, but among those which had not gone to seed were the fleur de lis, field daisies, buttercups, pitcher plants and a few violets. The wisteria was much appreciated for floral designs of cultivated plants, and early garden roses added their beauty and fragrance to the decorations." What poverty of floral decoration does bleak New England show when compared with affluent and prolific California!

A PICTURESQUE and incomprehensible correspondent comes at the TIMES head first with a capital dissertation on woman, in the course of which he eloquently remarks: "feeling within himself that Woman was made for a Companion and a Lovable Help Mate to Man, he has placed her far above what costumes and Laws of too hundred years ago did for her. She has become the center of all attraction, the Haverdry of all Havered a Gentleman will tip his Hat to a Lady and Smile when on the other hand on Meeting a Gentleman friend it would only be good morning or howareyou to day,"—and so on for quantity. This is very fine, but we fear there will be an insurrection among the sex when they find themselves portrayed in cold type as the Haverdry of all Havered. It will make them as furious as the fish-women whom Dean Swift, or Peter Jones, or some other horrible man, called a parallelogram and other bad names. Let this rash correspondent take to the woods in time to save his bacon.

AMUSEMENTS.

M. B. CURTIS.—The inimitable drummer drew another very fair and highly appreciative audience to the Grand Opera House, last evening. The innumerable funny points seemed to have lost none of their fun, and the laughter was loud and long. This evening Mr. Curtis and the company will appear in Spot Cash, his new play, of which the Philadelphia News says: "Mr. Curtis was Samuel Plastrick, of course, Miss Albini De Mer, the former Celeste, giving in the new piece an artistic representation of Hortense Lavordinier. The pose and the gait and the twang of Sam'l of Posen were all eloquently conspicuous in M. B. Curtis' presentation of Spot Cash last night at the Arch Street Theatre, for the first time in this city. The old Sam'l of Posen favorites were in the cast. The audience was very large and very enthusiastic. People who have seen Sam'l of Posen need not be told of the plot of Spot Cash, and people who haven't seen it ought to."

Trouble in the Church.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., June 10.—A sensation was developed in the session of the Reformed Church Synod to-day. The special committee to investigate the affairs of the Board of Domestic Missions reported that its former treasurer, John F. Smith, was short in his accounts $25,000. The report said the Board was occasionally forced to borrow money to meet its engagements; that it had authorized Treasurer Smith to give notes for these purposes, binding the Board, and that, taking advantage of his authority, he had borrowed and converted to his own use the sum named. It was stated that no property in his name could be found, though he was treasurer of an insurance company which failed, and is now treasurer of another. A resolution authorizing the prosecution of Smith, if deemed expedient, was passed; also, one to regulate the affairs of the Board of Domestic Missions, with a view to preventing a recurrence of such an affair.

A Postal Arrest.

DENVER, June 10.—At Aspen this afternoon, W. C. E. Koch broke into the house of W. J. Miller, a real estate dealer, and was shot four times, twice in the hand and twice through the body. He is still alive, but will die. Miller was arrested. The trouble was caused over a notorious woman. The tragedy was not unexpected by friends of the parties, as both have had several times made threats to kill each other on sight. Miller is from Chicago, where he has wealthy parents. Koch is from Toledo, O., where his father is a wholesale wine merchant.

BLOOD FLOWING FREELY IN BELFAST.

Fanatical Women Fighting by the Side of the Men—The Crisis in England—Notes.

Associated Press Dispatches to The Times.

BELFAST, June 10.—The people here have been wrought up to a state of great excitement by the riotous demonstrations of the Orangemen during the past two days. All work is stopped, stores are closed and many residences are closed and barricaded. Mobs are in every street, prepared for further deeds of violence. At midnight, a mob of Orangemen raided a public house kept by a Catholic named O'Hara, and, after sacking it, set it on fire.

THE KILLED AND WOUNDED.

The police charged the rioters a dozen times with bayonets, but each time were forced back by volleys of stones. The police were finally forced to take refuge in the barracks, where they fired upon the mob from the second story windows. The mob, however, held their ground twenty minutes longer, although the firing of the police was heavy and incessant. A score of rioters were wounded. It is known positively that six men and two women were killed. A great many were wounded. Twenty rioters who received bullet wounds are lying in one infirmary. A large number of Orangemen who took part in the riots were arrested to-day. The inquest on the bodies of those killed will be held this afternoon.

BELFAST, June 10.—Four of the rioters who were wounded by the police in yesterday's riot died to-day. Four others are dying.

ANOTHER ATTACK ON POLICE.

BELFAST, June 10.—The people at the Shank Hill Road meeting to-day attacked the police. The military was summoned, and the crowd was dispersed. It is now stated that the meeting was summoned to denounce the police, and also all other persons, for attacking the houses and property of peaceable people, and to urge upon citizens their duty to do the most in their power) to bring the disturbers of peace to justice, irrespective of creed or party. The meeting appointed a deputation to ask the Mayor of Belfast for the names of the officers in charge of the Shank Hill police barracks yesterday evening at 6 p. m.

The out-of-town police have been withdrawn from the streets of the city in consequence of the hostility manifested toward them by the Orangemen. Soldiers have been told off to take the places of such officers, and to assist the city police in case they should need help to night.

BELFAST, June 10.—The city was comparatively quiet this forenoon. Seven hundred extra policemen are now in town. Six hundred loyalists drilled near the city of Armagh last night.

AN EYE WITNESS' NARRATIVE.

An eye-witness of the riots Wednesday gives the following description of scenes attending the mob's attack on the Bowers Hill police station:

"Men armed with pokers pried up paving stones and broke them into suitable sizes for the use of the rioters when they ran short of missiles. Women and young girls desperately entreated the men to continue fighting whenever they flagged, offering them an apron full of fresh stones and when entreaty failed, the women and girls drove the men on by savage threats. The police station is a moderate sized dwelling house. When the mob attacked the building the police responded with a volley fired from the doorway, but the rioters soon drove the officers in, and they retreated upstairs, and thence maintained the fight on their side by shooting from the windows of the front bedroom on the second floor. They held their position half an hour, during which the battle was hot and savage on both sides, when they were reinforced by the arrival of seventy fresh officers. The increased energy of the police warfare served but to aggravate the mob, and they became furious. They were maddened by the sight of their comrades shot down, writhing and howling with agony, in the street. I have since heard old officers say that they never knew a mob to show greater viciousness, violence, pluck and determination. Despite their desperation, the rioters hurled their missiles with regularity and precision as if they had been drilled in stone-throwing. When the men in front had exhausted their ammunition, they would retire to receive fresh armsfull from the women, and thus make way for their comrades with new supplies. Some of the stone-throwing was extraordinary. The better armed of the rioters carried what we call here "Belfast kidneys." These are stones about five and a half inches long, three and a half inches broad, and weigh on an average about one and a half pound. There were many boys among the rioters, and they were as desperate and as plucky as the men. The battle at the station ceased when 250 soldiers came to the aid of the police. The soldiers were from the Highlanders and Fusiliers, and they soon drove the mobs away. People living in the neighborhood where the rioting began say it was caused by the police, under a mistaken impression, molesting and cudgelling some orderly workmen leaving a foundry. According to this story the populace got angry at the police for their cruel and unjustifiable conduct, and attempted to make them desist. When the conflict was imminent, the story goes, the mob offered to behave if the police were withdrawn, but not otherwise."

FUNERAL OF A VICTIM.

BELFAST, June 10.—The funeral of Thomas Gallagher, an Orangeman who was shot and killed during the riot at Lurgan, took place to-day. The funeral procession was well protected. A mob of Catholics jeered the mourners and threatened to stop the hearse, but the police held them in check. Political excitement is leading to dangerous quarrels among inmates of the factories at Lurgan. At one factory the Protestant families have struck work, demanding a dismissal of the Catholics.

AGAIN RIOTING.

Rioting was renewed to-night. An infuriated mob held possession of the streets and wrecked and pillaged taverns. The police were compelled to fire buckshot into the mob. So far as known no one was fatally wounded. Many police were injured by stones. Appeals of the clergy to the rioters to disperse were futile. Eventually the troops cleared the streets.

ENGLAND.

Gladstone Notifies Parliament of Its Approaching Dissolution.

LONDON, June 10.—In the Commons this afternoon Mr. Gladstone said that, in consequence of the rejection of the Home Rule bill he had advised the Queen to dissolve Parliament without delay. Her Majesty had graciously assented to this, and he would therefore ask the House to wind up the business of the session at the quickest practicable moment.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Conservative, moved the adjournment of the House. In supporting his motion, he said that on account of a remarkable omission by the Premier, of a date for dissolution, it remained unfixed, and he urged that Parliament be dissolved as soon as possible. There was nothing, he added, to delay the Opposition but an assurance that the dissolution would take place as on early a date as possible, and that a new Parliament would meet.

Mr. Gladstone replied that he was unable to positively inform the House when Parliament would be dissolved, but that it would doubtless be before the end of the present month. Respecting his government of Ireland the Premier said he thought the state of affairs in that country was such that the new Parliament ought to meet as early as possible. The country ought not to remain in uncertainty, after the governmental election, regarding the policy to be pursued respecting Ireland.

Sir Michael declared that Mr. Gladstone's statement was satisfactory, and he withdrew his motion.

IN THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

Earl Kimberly, Secretary of State for India, announced in the House of Lords this afternoon that the government had decided to dissolve Parliament, and that the Queen has sanctioned the resolution. He added that the government would take steps immediately to conclude the affairs of the present Parliament with all possible dispatch, with a view to effect the election of a new House of Commons at as early a day as possible.

Earl Carnarvon made a statement respecting Mr. Parnell's charge, last Monday, that the Conservative party purchased Irish support in the last election by a promise made through a Cabinet Minister, that they would in return introduce a Home Rule bill which, in addition to its other features, would confer on Ireland the right to control her own tariff policy. Lord Carnarvon said that when he was Lord Lieutenant of Ireland under the Marquis of Salisbury's government, he received from Mr. Parnell a request to be allowed an interview. "As Mr. Parnell was the elected head of the Irish party," continued the Earl, "I acted on my personal responsibility and consulted with him. The conversation was private. I never communicated it to any member of the Cabinet. Mr. Parnell and I left the room as free as we had entered it. I desired to repudiate the statement that has been printed and circulated that I acted upon that occasion in the capacity of a member of the government."

FOREIGN NOTES.

An Attempt to Depose Bavaria's Crazy King.

MUNICH, June 10.—The physicians appointed to examine the condition of King Ludwig, of Bavaria, have reported that his malady incapacitates him from governing properly. In consequence of this Prince Luitpold, uncle to the King, has issued a proclamation, countersigned by the Ministers, in which he assumes the regency, and summons the Bavarian Diet to meet on the 15th inst. Count Holstein was instructed by the Ministry to wait upon the King and ask him to authorize the appointment of a regency. The Count was arrested by order of the King when he entered the castle of Hohenschwagan. The King also gave orders that a guard of gendarmes be placed around the castle. The issue of an order by the regent to release Count Holstein and to surrender the castle to a state commission is hourly expected.

PATTI AND NICOLINI AGAIN MARRIED.

LONDON, June 10.—The religious rite of marriage between Adelina Patti and Signor Nicolini was performed to-day in the Protestant parish church at Ystrad Gynlais, about seven miles from Craig y Nos, Mme. Patti's residence. The diva wore a blue silk dress, covered with cream-colored lace. Seven miles of roadway along the Swansea railway, between Craig y Nos and the church, was spanned with triumphal arches the whole way, and the entire population of the valley turned out in holiday attire to pay tribute to the couple and witness the wedding. M. Maynans, editor of the Paris Figaro, gave the bride away, and Herr Gans, the operatic conductor, acted as best man for the groom. There were no bridesmaids.

NEW PRELATES.

ROME, June 10.—The papal consistory has created four other cardinals besides Archbishops Gibbons, of Baltimore, and Taschereau of Quebec, and has nominated three bishops in Ireland, twelve in Spain, six in France, three in Germany, six in America and seven in other nations.

THE CROPS.

Monthly Report of the Department of Agriculture.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The crop report of the Department of Agriculture makes the area of spring wheat nearly the same as last year—about 12,000,000 acres. There is an increase of one-sixth over last year's unsatisfactory flax product in southern Dakota. The effects of low prices of wheat have been counterbalanced by the superior rate of the yield of recent years. The condition of spring wheat averages 98⅔ against 97 last year in Wisconsin, 97 in Minnesota, 98 in Iowa, 100 in Nebraska, 97 in Dakota, and 99 in Washington Territory.

Winter wheat is not quite so promising as on the 1st of May. A slight decline in condition is reported in the West, and a low condition. The southern crop is more reduced, yet the average is only reduced two points, from 94.9 to 92.7. It is still from average to high in the great wheat-producing States. In New York it is not littering as in years of strong root growth. It is very promising in Maryland and Virginia, except in wet lands. In the South it has been affected by rust, shriveling the grain harvested. There has been injury from drought in Texas, from rain and floods in Ohio, and from hail-storms in Missouri. The prospect is good for a small fraction above twelve bushels per acre.

Rye has declined from a general average of 95.7 to 94.4 during the month. The barley acreage has been increased 3 per cent., and the condition is averaged at 100. Last year in June it was 89.

The large acreage of oats in 1885 has not been extensively increased. It has been slightly reduced in Kentucky and Ohio, where the area was abnormal last year. The increase will approach half a million acres. The condition averages nearly 96 against 94 in 1885 and 98 in 1884.

THE TYPOS

Suggest a Graceful Act in Reciprocation of Their Recent Present.

PITTSBURG, June 10.—At the session of the International Typographical Union to-day the committee appointed to devise a plan whereby the gift of Messrs. Childs and Drexel could be put to the best possible use, recommended that the $10,000 remain at interest for the space of five years. On Childs's next birthday it is proposed that every Union printer working in Union offices east of the Mississippi river shall set up 1000 ems, the proceeds of which shall go into the fund. When the birthday of Drexel dawns every Union printer west of the Mississippi shall contribute 1000 ems. Thus, for five years, it is proposed to commemorate the birthdays of these two generous givers. At the end of that period it is expected that quite a handsome sum—something not far short of $50,000—will have been raised. With this it is proposed to erect, in Philadelphia, a beautiful hall, which shall be known as the Home of the Craft.

PITTSBURG, June 10.—The International Typographical Union considered their relation to the Knights of Labor in executive session this afternoon. The matter was finally placed in the hands of a committee, with instructions to draw up a statement before final adjournment.

The report of the special committee on the gift of $10,000 presented by George W. Childs and A. J. Drexel was approved, and August Donotte of Washington, Frank S. Felton of Chicago and J. B. Daily of Philadelphia were appointed trustees of the fund.

Killed by an Explosion.

OGDEN, U. T., June 10.—An explosion, last night in the Utah Powder Works, Ogden Canon, eight miles distant, killed James Hoxie. A portion of the works were demolished. Ogden Canon blockaded to the press, and saved the entire works from destruction. Hoxie leaves a widow and two children.

A Shoveling Contest Starved.

TOPEKA, June 10.—The machinery warehouse on the farm of Hank Hoke, in the Prairie Colony, was destroyed by fire at daybreak this morning. The warehouse contained a full harvesting outfit, from a reaper to a self-binding harvester. The fire is supposed to have been incendiary.

THE RESULT ONLY A DRAWN BATTLE.

The Jury-Fixers' Cases in San Francisco—Shipping Interests Organizing for Protection—Coast Notes.

Associated Press Dispatches to The Times.

PORTLAND, Or., June 10.—Returns from counties hitherto unreported show that McBride, Republican, for Secretary of State, has at least 300 majority, and Strahan, Democrat, for Supreme Judge, from 100 to 150. This gives the Republicans three out of the six State officers, viz: Secretary of State, State Printer and Superintendent of Public Instruction. The Democrats get the Governor, Treasurer and Supreme Judge.

The lower house of the Legislature will be Democratic. The Senate will be Republican on account of the hold-over members elected two years ago.

PORTLAND, Or., June 10.—Unofficial returns from every county in the State show that G. W. McBride, Republican, for Secretary of State, has 375 plurality. R. S. Strahan, Democrat, for Supreme Judge, has between 150 and 175 plurality. Official returns may modify these figures, but cannot change the result.

Monday's election is summed up as follows: The Republicans re-elect Binger Hermann to Congress by 900. The Democrats elect Sylvester Pennoyer Governor by 1800 to 2000, G. W. Webb Treasurer, over H. L. Marsten, by 600; and Strahan Supreme Judge over J. B. Waldo by less than 200. The Republicans elect E. B. McElroy Superintendent of Public Instruction over N. Davis by 1200; Frank C. Baker State Printer, over Charles Nickell by 900; and McBride Secretary of State over R. F. Gibbons by less than 400. The Republican majority averages 400, a falling off of 1100 from two years ago.

The Prohibition vote in the State was about 2000, and all the figures above given are pluralities. The lower house of the Legislature will be Democratic. The Senate remains Republican. This Legislature does not elect a United States Senator. As the Governor, Secretary of State and Treasurer constitute the State Board for the government of all institutions, the Democrats will have control of the State for the next four years.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Jury-Bribers' Case—Fire on Market Street.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—Judge Murphy, to-day, in accordance with the recent order of Presiding Judge Edmonds, transferred the cases of Doane, Northcutt and Gallaghan, the jury-bribers, to Judge Wilson's court. Judge Wilson, who has decided that he could not try these cases, owing to his past friendship with Doane, will exchange courts with Judge Freer, of Butte county, who has been accepted by both prosecution and defense to preside at the trial of the cases.

ORGANIZED FOR PROTECTION.

The principal ship owners of this city held a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce this afternoon to form a protective association for the forwarding interests shipping on this coast. A temporary president and secretary were appointed, and also a committee to prepare by-laws. The latter is to report at the next meeting.

FIRE ON MARKET STREET.

Fire late last night burned the frame building No. 769 Market street, occupied by a boot and shoe manufactory and a coffee saloon. The building adjoining on the west side, occupied by a stable and the Cremorne theater, was damaged somewhat. Loss estimated at $20,000; insured for half that amount.

A San Diego Man Enjoined.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—United States Attorney General Garland, through District Attorney Hilborn, has filed in the Circuit Court a bill in equity against E. S. Babcock and H. L. Story, of San Diego, applying for an injunction to restrain them from constructing a wharf, as authorized by ordinance of the Board of Trustees of San Diego. The bill alleges that said wharf would cut off land belonging to the Government, and used as a military barracks, from deep water. On the filing of the bill and the affidavit of Lieut. Fletcher, who is in command of the post, and on motion of United States Attorney Carroll Cook, Judge Hoffman made an order for the defendants to show cause why they should not be enjoined. The order is made returnable July 12th.

Mangled by a Fly-wheel.

VIRGINIA, Nev., June 10—Anthony Fox, ex-member of the Legislature and a resident of the State since 1850, was instantly killed by being caught in the fly-wheel of machinery at Combination shaft, where he was employed as watchman. The body was dreadfully mangled. No one was present at the time, and the accident is difficult to account for, as the machinery was surrounded by a safety railing. He was a native of Pennsylvania, sixty-one years of age. He leaves a wife and four daughters.

Shot His Child.

WALLA WALLA, W. T., June 10.—A. L. Bitter, a farmer, twenty miles north of Yakima, was explaining the working of a breech-loading rifle to his wife, Wednesday, when the cartridge exploded. The ball passed through the body of Bitter's sleeping child, killing it instantly.

Republican Delegates Chosen.

RED BLUFF, June 10.—The Republican County Central Committee met this afternoon. The following delegates were appointed to the State Convention: Rolla Fuller, J. C. Tyler, J. S. Crawford, Jackson Ebley and C. A. Carter.

Too Much Morphine.

ONOVILLE, June 10.—County Clerk F. A. Peachy took forty-five grains of morphine this afternoon. He now lies in a critical condition, and though several physicians are working over him, they entertain but slight hopes of his recovery.

HALAMAUA'S KINGDOM.

The Hawaiian Islands to be Sold—The King's Latest Conceits.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—The Call, this morning, prints the statement of a prominent resident of the Sandwich Islands, in which the gentleman says that the native legislators have formulated a gigantic scheme to dispose of the islands. A bill was recently introduced by the government to authorize the procurement of a loan of $2,000,000. It is understood that the bill will be amended, making the amount five times as large. Mr. Hoffman, who is now in the islands, acting as an agent for the immigration of Portuguese to the islands, has given the King assurances that a syndicate of European capitalists are willing and anxious to furnish the money. The acceptance of the loan would be the virtual sale of the islands, as it could never be returned.

The gentleman tells another story about the Hawaiian King. He says that King Kalakaua applies to the title of "Emperor of the Pacific," and that a petition asking that that title be conferred on Kalakaua has come up from several districts in the Kingdom.

WRANGLING RAILWAYS.

Arbitrating Southern Pacific's Dispute with the Atchison.

CHICAGO, June 10.—The board of arbitrators to settle the dispute between the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railroad and the Southern Pacific Railroad, met to-day. R. B. Thomas of the Richmond and Danville, Hugh Riddle, ex-President of the Rock Island, and E. P. Vining, Commissioner, of the Western Trunk Line Association, composed the board. The dispute hinges upon the interpretation of the phrase "established rates" in an agreement made between the lines regarding the haul over the Southern Pacific from Mojave to San Francisco. The Atchison and Atlantic and Pacific agreed to pay a certain proportion of their through established rates, both on passenger and freight traffic, to the Southern Pacific for the use of the latter's track between the two cities referred to. When the warfare on California business broke out the Atchison insisted that any war rate made by all of the lines was an established rate. To this the Southern Pacific objected as forcing it to haul freight for its most active competitors as figures that were in some instances less than transfer charges across to San Francisco. In reply, the Atchison claimed that to abide by the peace tariff would be equivalent to allowing the Southern Pacific to make what rates it pleased and take all of the business. Representatives of the two roads are present to-day for the purpose of verbally adding such additional information to the written arguments as the arbitrators might require. General Passenger Agent Goodman and Traffic Manager Stubbs, of the Southern Pacific, and C. W. Smith, Traffic Manager and Vice-President of the Santa Fé, and some legal lights of the latter company, were among those in attendance. Two sessions were held, morning and evening. A decision will be made in a few days.

MYSTERIOUS EXPLOSION.

A Shake Up Caused by the Explosion of Gas.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 10.—At Parsons at a late hour last night people were terrified by what is supposed to have been an explosion of gas in the mine of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company. Many persons living within a short distance of the mine were hurled about in their homes and they thought it was an earthquake. A large number of houses in the vicinity of the mine were badly shaken, and many windows shattered. The surface of the ground in the vicinity of the Philadelphia and Reading depot has fallen fully two feet and it is still settling. Three houses belonging to one man, about 300 feet from the mine, were moved a surprising distance from their original positions. No lives were lost. Some miners think that there was no explosion and that the concussion was caused by the rush of air due to an extensive cave-in.

A LEGAL LOOPHOLE,

Through Which Mr. Mitchell Very Slickly Slipped Out.

F. R. Mitchell was up in the Superior Court yesterday—Judge Williams temporarily presiding in Department One—on a charge of robbery. There being no evidence, Mitchell was acquitted, and went his way rejoicing. The case is a peculiar one, as showing how loose the meshes of the law sometimes are. On the 26th of March an Arizonian named Kriss stopped in Los Angeles on his way from the north to attend some mining business in Arizona. He had his ticket and a double eagle or so. While here he ran around with F. R. Mitchell, a brakeman on the S. P. R. R. In the evening Mitchell and some friends got Kriss into a caboose; and there Kriss was "rolled" and robbed of everything he had. He had Mitchell arrested for the crime. The case was put off from time to time. Kriss had been utterly cleaned out, and had "not a bean" left wherewith to pay his expenses here. He was anxious to get home. Going before Judge Chesney and proving himself unable to give bonds for his appearance as a witness when the case should be called, he was allowed to make his deposition. This was taken by Stenographer Fox before Judge Chesney. Mitchell was present, and fully informed of his rights of counsel, cross-examination, etc.; but his attorney, H. T. Gage, was not on hand, though District Attorney Holton had personally notified him. The deposition was very binding on Mitchell. Kriss swore that he knew Mitchell well; that Mitchell was on top of him and rifling his pockets. Yesterday the case came up for trial before Judge Williams. Judge Cheney—who had been present at the taking of the deposition—being absent, District Attorney Holton introduced the deposition in evidence, but Mr. Gage objected. The Judge sustained the objection and ruled out the deposition on the ground that it did not show that defendant's counsel failed so appear after proper notification. There was other evidence corroborative of the deposition, but valueless without it. The case therefore went before the jury without evidence, and they could do nothing but acquit, which they did. District Attorney Holton had issued a subpœna for Kriss on the fourth of June, returnable yesterday, but as Kriss was out of the State he naturally did not appear.

PASADENA.

Street Railroad Construction Begun—Some Bachelor Business.

Correspondence of the TIMES.

PASADENA, June 10.—Herman Sterling, a prominent citizen of Rock Falls, Ill., accompanied by his wife, arrived yesterday on their first visit to the land of flowers and sunshine. Mr. Sterling states that hardly a week has passed this season but the local papers in his region of country have given account of some calamitous windstorm or cyclone sweeping across that portion of God's heritage, which has created a general feeling of insecurity to life and property. Like himself, many of his neighbors are seeking out a more promising land. He thinks the tide of immigrat on to Southern California from that section the coming fall and winter will exceed that of past seasons.

Civil Engineer J. M. Willard and his assistants commenced this morning surveying out and driving the stakes of the center line of Colorado street railroad; the franchise of the company directing their line to follow the center of the street.

The Colorado Street Railroad Company have applied to the Board of Supervisors for an amendment of their charter, which will enable them to run their line from Colorado street north, through Lake avenue, to Villa street; passing through Oliveswood; thence east through Villa street to the county road; thence south to Colorado street. As the company's present charter extends along Colorado street to Lamanda Park, this additional route will give the company a complete loop of about a mile square. A sufficient bonus from property owners along the loop has already been pledged, and work on the line will be commenced as soon as the amendment to the charter is granted.

"OUR BACHELORS."

The Pasadena Dramatic Company play the comedy "Our Bachelors" at Williams Hall Saturday. The proceeds go to the uniform fund of the Pasadena Brass Band. An orchestra of ten pieces is to furnish the music for the occasion, and, from the way tickets are selling, the jolly band boys will undoubtedly get a fine benefit. "Our Bachelors" was played by the same company last winter to a Pasadena audience, with good success.

Dr. E. T. Mitchell, of Ogden, Utah, Division Surgeon of the Union Pacific Railroad, and who passed March and April in Pasadena, writes to his friend, F. S. Wallace, that he proposes returning to the "Crown of the Valley" this fall.

WASHINGTON.

Amendments to the Edmunds Polygamy Bill.

CONGRESSMEN AS RAILWAY ATTORNEYS.

Reported Rejection of Goods by the Senate—The President and his Bride—Railroad Notes.

Associated Press Dispatches to The Times.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The report of the House Judiciary Committee on the Edmunds Anti-Polygamy bill, which was presented to the House to-day, is a very long document. After a detailed statement of the change made by the committee (already published), and the reasons therefor, the report says:

"Your committee has no disposition to recommend any measure to the House which will involve the sanctity of any religious faith, however wrong, in their opinion, it may be. But the distinction between overt acts resulting from belief which the laws make criminal, and right of opinion and of worshipping God according to the dictates of conscience, was so fully stated in the report on the constitutional amendment as to need no repetition. The committee does not hesitate to express their dissent from the twelfth section of the Senate bill, the effect of which would be that the corporate church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints would be controlled by trustees of the church in conjunction with trustees appointed by the President. This union of trustees of the church and those of the Government cannot be distinguished from a union of church and State and a law respecting the establishment of religion. Nor can it be other than a limitation of the free exercise of religion where the majority who control in matters of faith and discipline are appointed by the President. Your committee recommends to cut out by the roots this church establishment and Emigration Fund Company and its attachments, and to authorize judicial proceeding through the Attorney General, for dealing with property rights according to law and equity."

In conclusion, the report says:

"While the bill, as amended, deals with public questions with firmness and with the real purpose of curing existing evils, it does so in entire consistency with the constitutional liberties of the people and with their free right to exercise their religious beliefs according to their conscience and under the responsibility of each man to the Supreme Being."

XLIX CONGRESS—FIRST SESSION.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—In the Senate Mr. Beck called up his bill to prohibit members of Congress from accepting retainers or employment from railroad companies which have received land grants or pecuniary aid from Congress. Mr. Beck stated that he had no remarks to make upon it, and asked for its immediate consideration.

Mr. Edmunds moved its referment to the Committee on Judiciary.

Mr. Beck said it would be as well to vote the bill down at once as to refer it to that committee.

Mr. Edmunds remarked that he would move its reference to the Committee on Finance if that would suit Mr. Beck any better.

This did not suit Mr. Beck any better.

Then Mr Edmunds repeated his motion to refer it to the Committee on Judiciary. On this the yeas and nays were called, and the motion was rejected—21 to 24.

The bill then came to a vote and was passed without reference to any committee. The vote on the passage of the bill stood: Yeas 37; nays, 11.

In the afternoon session Mr. Hawley moved to reconsider the bill. Mr. Hawley said that with a number of other Senators he had voted for the passage of the bill, but since voting for it he had given the bill some consideration, hence his motion to reconsider.

The motion was agreed to.

After an executive session the Senate adjourned.

FRIDAY, JUNE 11, 1886.

Ohio Centennial.

The Ohio Archæological and Historical Society, (of which Allen G. Thurman is President and A. A. Graham Secretary, with headquarters at Columbus), is about to print the first annual publication of the society, containing ten distinct papers, giving proceedings and papers read on topics connected with the work of the society. Only a limited edition will be printed, and the Annual will be furnished only to members and other similar societies, or to persons who may order it in advance, in accordance with the rules of the society—a fact of interest to numerous Ohio-born people living in California.

It is part of the plan of the society to celebrate the centennial of the settlement of Ohio, at Marietta, April 7, 1788. In order to properly prepare the school children of the State for this event, a committee of the most eminent educators of the State, appointed by the State Teachers' Association, co-operating with the Archæological and Historical Society, has recommended a systematic course of reading and study in Ohio history; and John B. Peaslee, Superintendent Cincinnati Public Schools, was requested by resolution to prepare a pamphlet on the Pioneer History of Ohio, containing appropriate selections of poetry and prose, for the use of the school children. The pamphlet is now in the course of preparation, and will be issued in the winter of 1877-78, and sent to every school in Ohio which may desire it.

The committee close with a special appeal to every Ohio teacher to take advantage of the opportunity to awaken and foster in the minds of the youth of Ohio a taste for historical reading—an opportunity "that will not occur again in our generation."

The celebration of April 7, 1888, will be a historical event of great interest, concerning large numbers of people beyond the borders of the Buckeye State and all over the broad West and the Pacific Slope.

THE presence of a party of surveyors in this section has caused some speculations as to the object of their movements. One report had it that the Atchison railroad folks are surveying the line to Santa Monica. Another that San Pedro is the objective point. The Riverside Press suggests to the TIMES that "there may be a move on the part of the company to extend the Riverside line down the coast to Oceanside with a view of abandoning the line down the Temecula Cañon; or it may be a blind to cover up some other point which they desire to keep from public view."

"One thing," adds the Press, "is quite certain, and that is that the Riverside road will not find a terminus at Arlington for any great length of time."

The Anaheim Gazette has a different idea, which may be the true solution of the matter. It says: "The Coast Survey party, now making their headquarters at Anaheim, have been engaged in a thorough reconnaissance of the surrounding country to determine the best location for a ten-mile base line from which to start their triangulation that is to extend northward and connect with former surveys in the vicinity of Santa Barbara, and southward to the Mexican boundary, also to connect with the San Clemente and Santa Catalina Islands."

Republicans surely will not lack for candidates for the gubernatorial nomination in August. We have the names of Chancellor Harrison of Napa, John F. Swift of San Francisco, Charles F. Reed of Yolo, W. W. Morrow of San Francisco, W. H. Brown of El Dorado, W. H. Dimond of San Francisco, A. P. Williams of San Francisco, M. C. Blake of San Francisco, Horace Davis of San Francisco, A. R. Conklin of Inyo, Irving M. Scott of San Francisco, John McComb of Folsom, Chas. R. Bard of Ventura, John Mansfield of Los Angeles, H. H. Markham of Pasadena, N. I. Hidecut of Yolo, John P. Stearns of Santa Barbara, W. A. Holcomb of Alameda, and any number of others. There is wide room for selection.—[San Diego Union.

There are some errors in the above, and several names that will cut no figure in the convention. Bard, who is one of them, tells his friends that he is not a candidate; Markham is known to be not in the field, and Stearns is a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor. "Many are called, but few shall be chosen." We predict that the real contest will be narrowed down in the convention to Morrow, Swift and Harrison, with the former in the lead on the home stretch. It is possible, and even probable, that San Francisco will want to hold on to Morrow and keep him in Congress, but should the run he will make a good race and be elected. Morrow from the Bay City and Stearns from the sunny South would be a pretty strong team.

DR. VALENTINE MOTT, who has recently returned from Paris, where he spent several weeks with Pasteur studying his theory of inoculation for hydrophobia, asks for modest contributions to establish an institution for the purpose in this country. He thinks that about $20,000 will be sufficient to start with.

Sam McKeenan, of the Cincinnati Commercial, says there is a charming name in Illinois, applied "Slumpter for Democratic Digest." It is so called by the Republican World. "The distinct tribunal which is composed partly of men who pay the taxes and partly of those who take no interest against paying them."

CROOK'S REPORT

Of His Last Apache Indian Campaign.

AN INTERESTING PIECE OF HISTORY.

Which has Never Been Published—Causes of the Present Outbreak, and Beginning of the Campaign.

I have had the good fortune to secure a copy of General Crook's final report from the Department of Arizona. It has come to me entirely without knowledge on the General's part. The document is full of interest for many reasons. It is the authoritative statement of the causes and the operations of the present outbreak; and though the TIMES has already foreshadowed some of its conclusions, the document now sees light for the first time. It is doubly interesting in the present juncture. It is now two months since General Crook was relieved of the command of the Department of Arizona. He had then sent four-fifths of the renegades to a Florida prison. There were but 34 hostiles out—of whom 14 were squaws—and these were worn out and sought nothing but refuge in some inaccessible place. There had been no depredation in the United States for many months, and comparatively few in Mexico. Crook was removed. The confidence which the Reservation Indians had felt, that they would not be at the mercy of the white ruffians of the Territory during his rule, was now replaced by doubt as to what the new man would do. The renegades learned of the change about as soon as anyone, you may be sure. Instead of the dreaded "Chief-with-the-brown-clothes," who knew all their haunts and all their tricks of warfare, there was now a new commander, of whose there-untried prowess they felt no fear. The Apache has a hideous humor in his composition, and it seems almost as if the renegades had been simply laying themselves out to show Miles's braggart friends—his friends, mind; Miles is no braggart—just how it was themselves. In this two months there has been more bloodshed than in the preceding two years under Crook; and the hostiles, flitting from rocky range to range, do a digito-nasal dance for the benefit of their futile pursuers. You keep hearing how this and that band of "Rangers" (legitimate successors to the Tombstone Toughs) has killed three or four renegades; but somehow they never bring in a head for the handsome reward. There chances to be a very efficient check on these prevaricators. Every Apache is tagged and numbered, and a full description of him is kept in a big book. This fact leads to the final discomfiture of the warriors who claim to have slain thus and so many hostiles. If we were to believe the dispatches, the whole reservation is on the verge of the war path, and the raiders have already been largely reinforced. This is probably further territorial fiction; but, if true, it simply militates against the very point the venomous novelists are still trying to make—viz., further damnation of Crook's policy. There was no such dissatisfaction, no such rebellion, while Crook was there. The Territory is also illustrating itself by two propositions; one that the Apaches must all be removed from Arizona—in cool disregard of the fact that Arizona belongs to the Apaches, that they were forced to accept the small Reservation in lieu of the whole Territory, and that even the Reservation has been thoroughly stolen from and cut down five times to fill the pockets of grasping settlers. The other proposition is the old assassin plan to march out the Reservation and butcher the women and children who cannot get away. There is precious little danger of that, however. Arizona would sooner storm that deadly fastness with its mouth than in fact.

There is an impression that unprecedented means are now being taken to catch the hostiles. Such is not the case. With the exception of a reward offered by the citizens, no more is being done than was done when Geronimo broke out a year ago, or when Ulzanna made his bloody raid last fall. The great difference is that under the new regime the value of advertising is understood. Miles is doing all he can, and is doing it well. I hope he will "get there"—and these remarks are not intended as any reflection upon him. But put on your thinking-cap and tell me that Arizona has gained in the last two months.

And now to Gen. Crook's report.

"HEADQUARTERS, DEP'T OF ARIZONA, IN THE FIELD, FORT BOWIE, A. T., April 10, 1886.

Adjutant General, Division of the Pacific, Presidio of San Francisco, California, SIR:—I have the honor to submit the following report of the operations of the troops under my command in the pursuit of hostile Chiricahuas.

"My first information of impending trouble was a telegram received on the afternoon of May 17, 1885; and before a reply could be sent, the wires between Fort Apache and San Carlos were cut. The next afternoon I was informed that Geronimo, Nanay, Mangus, Natchez and Chihuahua, with a considerable party, had left their camp just after dark the preceding evening. Within a few days the exact number of renegades was fixed at thirty-four men, eight well grown boys and ninety-two women and children. I learned that on May 15th Lieut. Britton Davis, 3d Cav., sent a telegraphic dispatch to me, which I did not see until months afterwards. Had this telegram reached me, I feel morally certain that the troubles would have been settled without an outbreak. Troubles of minor importance were constantly occurring on the Reservation, which were quitted down by the officers in charge reporting them to me and receiving my instructions. There probably would not have been as much danger or difficulty in managing the matter reported in Lieut. Davis's telegram as there was in quelling the disturbances started by Ka-e-te-na in March and June, 1884, in which Bonito was implicated, or those in July, 1885. I have not on hand papers relating to the management of those difficulties; but in each instance methods were employed suitable to the special emergency. This trouble arose from a tiswin drunk; and in order to shield the guilty parties, all the prominent chiefs drank of this liquor, and in a body went to Lieut. Davis and informed him of the fact, thinking that in this way all would escape punishment. Lieut. Davis told them that in a matter of such importance he could not take action himself, but would report the whole occurrence to me for my directions. Lieut. Davis wrote the telegram in the presence of the Indians, told them what he had written, and said that he should act in accordance with my personal instructions, and would notify them what my orders were when received. A messenger was immediately sent with this dispatch to Fort Apache, but no reply was received. The Indians waited until dark, and again assembled the next day, but receiving no reply became alarmed, and doubtless concluded that I was making preparations to seize the whole of them and punish them as I had Ka-e-te-na. This idea, I afterward learned, had been put in their heads by ill-disposed persons on the Reservation. A matter of this kind, while it must be managed with exceeding caution, must be settled promptly—without giving time for their suspicious imaginations to work upon their fears. Delay is a fatal error. For further details attention is invited to the report of Lieut. Davis, which accompanies this paper. [I shall add this to the General's report, marked "Appendix A."—LOW].

"Within an hour after the renegades left their camp on Turkey Creek, two troops of the Fourth Cavalry, under command of Capt. Allen Smith, and a party of White Mountain and Chiricahua scouts, under Lieuts. Gatewood and Davis, left Fort Apache in pursuit. But such was the rapidity of their flight that it was impossible to overtake them. It subsequently transpired that they traveled nearly 120 miles before stopping for rest or food. Lieut. Smith's report of the incident has passed I have not at hand.—L.

"As soon as the Apaches had left, orders were given for the Apache scouts to immediately put in motion in endeavor to overtake or intercept them. Captain Pierce, with a party of scouts from San Carlos, moved toward Ash Peak. The commanding officer at Fort Thomas, without waiting for orders, sent two companies of cavalry toward Clifton. The commanding officer at Fort Grant was ordered to send all his available force—five comp nies of cavalry—toward the Gila, with orders to cut the hostile trail if possible, and to pursue vigorously, regardless of Departmental or National lines. The commanding officer at Fort Bowie was directed to ambush his cavalry at proper points in the Stein's Peak range, which had been a favorite trail in former years. The commanding officer at Fort Huachuca was instructed to send three troops to Guadalupe Cañon, and to scout the whole country in that vicinity. Information was sent to the commanding officer, District of New Mexico, of the departure of the Indians and the movements of my troops; and every effort was made to warn citizens, at all points within reach, of their danger.

"On the 28th of May, my information indicating that the Indians had gone into the Black Range, New Mexico, I left my headquarters and proceeded to Fort Bayard, whence I could more intelligently direct the movement of troops from my department. The whole country north, east and west of Bayard was filled with troops. No less than 20 troops of cavalry and more than one 100 Indian scouts were moved in every direction, to either intercept or follow the trails of the hostiles. But with the exception of the capture of a few of their animals by the Indian scouts under Chatto, and a slight skirmish with their rear-guard by the troops from Apache under Capt. Smith on May 22d, in which three of his command were wounded—the hostiles were not even caught sight of by the troops, and finally crossed into Mexico about June 10th.

"In the twenty-three days from the outbreak until the Indians crossed into Mexico, every possible effort was made by the troops, which were pushed to the limit of endurance of men and animals, but without result other than to drive the Indians out of the Black Range and Mogollons, and also to save the lives, probably, of many ranchmen and prospectors. It must be remembered that the two years of peace had enormously increased the business interests of Arizona and the contiguous portions of New Mexico. Cattle and horse ranches had been established wherever a mountain stream afforded the necessary water. Thus the hostiles found food and transportation in every valley; whereas the pursuing troops were limited to the horses they were riding and to the rations carried on their pack trains. The vigor of the pursuit may be understood from the fact that more than 150 horses and mules were found on the different trails—worn out and killed, or abandoned by the Indians in their flight.

"As soon as it became evident that the hostiles were moving south, I proceeded to Deming, June 5, and began preparations to follow them into Mexico.

"Captain Emmet Crawford, Third cavalry, who had reported to me, was ordered with the battalion of scouts which had been operating in the country about the old Warm Spring Reservation, to go to Separ by rail, and thence to move with a troop of cavalry to the south end of the Animas Valley, with the hope that the hostiles might cross into Mexico through the Guadalupe Mountains. The result showed that the main body of the hostiles crossed the Line on the west of the Mule Mountains, though a small party surprised a camp of the 4th Cav. in Guadalupe Cañon, guarded by seven enlisted men, of whom they killed four. Another small party crossed the Line near Lake Palomas. Lieut. Davis—who, with sixty White Mountain and Chiricahua scouts, had been following the trail of the hostiles as rapidly as possible, was ordered to report to Capt. Crawford. On the 11th of June the combined force—consisting of ninety-two scouts and Troop A, 6th Cav., followed the hostiles into the Sierra Madre. On the 9th of June a telegram [attached to the original report, but not in my hands—L.] was received from Lieutenant-General Sheridan, informing me that I was authorized to enlist 200 additional scouts; and that the Cheyenne pack-train had been ordered to report to me. [This pack-train was brought down and fitted out by Chief of Transportation Thomas Moore, of whom I have already told you—L.] I was also directed to establish my headquarters at a point either on or near the S. P. R. R. I accordingly proceeded to Fort Bowie. Directions were immediately issued for the enlistment of the new scouts—100 at San Carlos, and the remainder at Fort Apache. As soon as the 100 at Apache were enlisted, Lieut. Gatewood was ordered in command, to thoroughly scout the Mogollons and the Black Range, in order to determine definitely whether any of the hostiles were remaining in that region, as was persistently reported. This movement delayed his arrival at Bowie about twenty days; and though it was found, as I had expected, that there were no hostiles in New Mexico, I did not deem it advisable to organize a second expedition for service in Mexico until this fact was definitely established.

"As soon as necessary preparations could be completed, Capt. Wirt Davis, Fourth Cavalry, with a command consisting of his own cavalry troop and 100 Indian scouts, with pack-trains carrying sixty days' rations, was ordered into Mexico [I have already given you a detailed report of his expedition.—L]. My plan of operations was as follows: that the commands of Capts. Davis and Crawford should thoroughly scour the Sierra Madre and the adjoining mountain ranges, and endeavor to surprise the hostile camps in Mexico; at the same time I would so station troops along the border as to prevent, if possible, the return of the renegades to the United States when they should be driven out of Mexico by the commands operating in the mountains. With this in view, I placed a troop of cavalry at every water hole along the border from the Patagonia mountains to the Rio Grande. With each troop I stationed a detachment of Indian scouts, with sufficient pack-mules to carry at least ten days' rations for the command. Orders were given to conceal the troops, and to keep the country between the different camps constantly patrolled. I also established a second line nearer the railroad, as reserves to the first line. In order to insure prompt supplies to the commands operating in Mexico, I established a depot at Lang's ranch, at the south end of the Animas valley, near the boundary. In New Mexico reserve camps were also established at such points as seemed to offer the best facilities for rapid movement and successful pursuit, in the event that the renegades should return to the United States. Four troops of the Eighth Cavalry, from Texas, having reported to Gen. Bradley, were stationed north of the railroad, at points which were deemed most available for pursuit of the Indians; and most likely to afford protection to life and property. [This was a much more thorough disposition of troops than the present, no military man will deny—L.]

"On the 23d of June Capt. Crawford's scouts under Chatto struck Chihuahua's band in the Bavispe mountains, northeast of Oputo; but owing to the position occupied by the hostiles, their camp could not be surrounded, and in the fight which ensued, they escaped. Fifteen women and children, a number of horses and a considerable amount of plunder were captured."

I will give the rest of this interesting report in a later installment. LOW.

ALGUNOS.

A Visit of Southern California Celebrities from the Mountains.

THE TIMES is indebted to G. S. Beaumont, at Pasadena, for a copy of the American Register, Paris, France, containing the following letter, which will be read with interest by every Southern Californian:

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 13, 1886.—In coming here from the Mojave Junction we were treated to what travelers over the deserts often see—a number of mirages. The lakes looked like veritable lakes, and we all, as does everybody, fall to wondering how these delusions are produced. One of the prettiest effects we saw was a mirage lake at the foot of the mountains, which reflected the masses of color produced by flowers on the hill-sides.

As we approached Los Angeles—the city of the Queen of the Angels—the blooming desert country changed into thrifty little farms, planted along in the valley, but the landscape at no time was strikingly attractive. The city itself, exclusive of the suburbs, is in no sense remarkable for beauty of location or for its architecture. It has horse-cars and 30,000 inhabitants. All Southern California is now being "boomed"—property is held at ridiculously high figures, and real estate speculators are rife.

From the hills about the city, where are planted many pretty houses, the view is superb, reaching out to the sea, thirty miles away. But the finest residences I found in the suburb, located on the plain on which the city proper is built. To saunter along Adams street is to see what many people would call "heavenly homes," set in gardens of flowers, palm, orange and lemon trees, where there is scarcely a day in the year when the occupants do not sit on the piazzas and breathe the fresh air, which is delicious. People disagree about the healthfulness of the city. The water is abominable, and the sewerage has not yet been properly attended to. But it is the center from which radiate various railroads, which transport one to places of extraordinary beauty that seem perfect in healthfulness.

An elegant town about nine miles away is Pasadena, an Indian word meaning "Crown of the Valley." The valley is San Gabriel, lying at the foot of the San Bernardino mountains. Both valley and mountains are the most beautiful I have seen in California.

In this region, just at the foothills, and overlooking the valley, is the Sierra Madre Villa, a famous winter resort—a spot of glorious beauty, enriched with fig and orange and vine, and all the attractions of this winterless land, although on the amethystine tops of these exquisite mountains lies the snow. Pasadena is a great garden of pretty homes, avenues of trees and palms, orchards of oranges and lime, of fig, apricot and peach, of grapes and flowers, hedges and vines—a place as beautiful as the typical Garden of Eden. Most of the people are from the East—cultivated, charming people, who have fled from the eastern blizzards of heat and cold to this paradise, where they make their living by raising tropical fruits. One must suppose that every one is honest and well-bred, for the orange orchards, loaded with the golden fruit and sweet scented blossoms as well, are unfenced and open to everybody.

* * * * * *

I think I never met with a more hospitable people than the colonists of Pasadena and Riverside. For once we had our fill of oranges from the trees, and real orange blossoms, for the trees bear ripe fruit and fresh blossoms at the same time. As the Southern Californian oranges do not come into market until after the Florida oranges, there seems to be no danger of a lack of market. Orange picking continues from January to July, and the trees, I judge, are commonly trimmed after picking. The soil of the orchards is kept constantly stirred and free from weeds, and the trees are irrigated about four times during the dry season. Water costs from $1.50 per acre up, according to amount used. As cultivation increases, the need of irrigation diminishes. The orange growers claim that a man can afford to pay a thousand dollars an acre for an orange orchard, and then make lots of money. Of course, orange culture, palms, and flowers, appeal very forcibly to the imagination, when, after all, the orange blossom is not nearly so beautiful as that of the apple, and an apple orchard in fruit is as fine a sight, to my eyes, as one of orange, so that one must think, after all, that it is the mild skies that effect the charm. I heard a lady in Los Angeles, who had not been East for twelve years, say: "I just long to hear the snow crunch under my feet again." The charm that winter has for the young clings to my memory, but when one is old, the fondness for the keen, biting frost is preferred as a memory, rather than an actual fact. Quite as many people claim that they come to California to escape the intense heat of summer, as the cold of winter. But, of course, these heat escapers avoid the interior valleys of California, which become intolerable in summer. The soft, tender beauty of the Eastern spring, and the glowing, brilliant crispness of autumn are unknown in California, unless one lives high up in the Sierras. For eternal summer, however, California is a good place, far better for Americans, it strikes me, than Southern Europe.

MERTWOOD.

This rather free-handed correspondent falls into a number of errors which naturally result from superficial writing. Los Angeles has 40,000 inhabitants instead of 30,000. The prices of real estate here, while they may seem high to a person of provincial associations, are no higher than in other American cities of the same size, thrift and promise. As to the abominable water, that soft impeachment must be acknowledged, but we expect to have it bettered as soon as the Water Company's improvements are completed. The uniformly healthy condition of the city, however—almost total exemption from epidemics—would indicate that the water, though not so clear as it might be, is not unhealthy. The same analogy holds as to sewers. There is a system which serves the city fairly and does not result in ill health. This must necessarily be enlarged and improved as the city grows, but the nucleus is established on correct principles, and will always form a serviceable part of the system.—ED. TIMES.

They Had Better Resign.

Examiner, June 8.]

There seems to be a prevalent impression that our State Supreme Court, as at present constituted, fails to meet either the wishes of the people or the interests of the community. It is not that these wishes and interests are in conflict with the law, but that a majority of the court is wedded to an obsolete idea, and is unable to perceive that an ancient custom, sanctioned by the common law of England, has no equitable application to the civilization and progress of the Pacific coast; and that, if enforced here, would work incalculable evil.

Judges fitted to administer the laws of a great State should be endowed with discriminating faculties. If not capable of analytical research, they should at least know something of the process of logical reasoning. To a mind of ordinary intelligence it does not appear difficult to realize that the spirit, if not the letter, of the law does not sanction the application of a custom founded in physical conditions directly the reverse of those to which it is sought to be applied. Riparian rights are the outgrowth of customs to which irrigation is unknown. They are the products of physical conditions in all respects dissimilar to those of California. The soil of England is wet, the atmosphere is damp, and irrigation is an unheard-of thing in the processes of agriculture. Here the soil is arid, the atmosphere dry, the heat of the sun intense, and farming is impossible without irrigation. The water from our streams has been diverted for irrigation purposes ever since civilization began on this coast. It is sanctioned by both Spanish and American usage. It has become a custom, grown into a right. Yet a majority of the judges of our Supreme Court hold that this ancient custom of California is repealed by the English common law. Who ever heard before that the common law repealed a custom? It can be conceded, all its force and significance, all its vitality and influence.

The difficulty with Messrs. McKinney, Sharpstein, Thornton and McKee is that they construed the spirit and sense of the common law with an abstraction. They regard the doctrine of riparian rights as a principle—as possessing a force founded upon an equity, whereas it is the result of a usage sanctioned by popular acquiescence. The California use and custom in the matter of irrigation is as much common law as is the English doctrine of riparian rights. There is no principle in common law, therefore no consistency. It is full of contradictions. Custom in Yorkshire is essentially antagonistic to custom in Kent, yet both usages in England are common law, because they are undisputed customs of the respective localities.

Common law is the creature of habit. It grows with the development of usages. This is its sole title to recognition. Judges unable to perceive these distinctions have no business on the bench of the Supreme Court. They ought to resign. They are unfitted and incompetent for the places they keep from wiser and better men. They may be honest, but it is the honesty of ignorance and stupidity.

Pasadena City Election.

To the Editor of the Times—SIR: The election is over, and the Citizens' ticket won the battle. The contest was a hot one, and the result very gratifying to the higher classes. It is very evident that the liquor interest did its best, and are very sore over their defeat. We are not sorry for them. All we have to say to them is, keep your record clean, if you prefer places of honor in Pasadena. JACK MILLER.

TRIFLES OF THE TIMES.

CLEVELAND GOES FISHING.

O Grover, sir, how could you leave
Your new-made wife to pine,
While you went out with bait and hook
And your stout angler's line?

Why not content with what you've caught—
A lady young and fair—
Without indulging in such sport
As Halpin fish to snare?

Los Angeles has rejected the scheme for a great bathing establishment. A place that is working so energetically for metropolitan honors has no time to wash.—[Post.

Real Estate.

THE GREATEST

Real Estate Sale of the Season!

Subdivision of the celebrated Co-operative Nursery Tract. Grand sale of 482 beautiful residence lots, each 50 feet front, including 15 extra large size corner prime lots, on South Main street, near Jefferson, at $350 each, on easy instalments, without interest. With these lots are included ten beautiful and expensive cottages, four most electric lights, ample and heavy plank sidewalks in front of every lot, 14-year-old seedling orange trees; also bearing grapevines—all of which improvements are free to subscribers. Books for subscription will be open on and after Thursday, April 29, at J. M. BATCHELOR & CO.'S, Real Estate, Auctioneers, 236 North Main street, Baker Block.

The owner of this property respectfully refers to His Honor Mayor Spence, President of First National Bank; President John E. Plater, of Los Angeles County Bank; President Geo. H. Bonebrake, of Los Angeles National Bank.

A very unusual opportunity to obtain a lovely home in the most beautiful southern suburb of Los Angeles.

Four hundred and eighty-two lots for sale on terms within the reach of any one wishing a home of their own at less rates than house rent can be obtained.

Over one-half of these lots contain 14 year-old seedling orange trees—not common oranges, remember. A few lots of this section afford a good family living. One-third of these lots are covered with the three best varieties of bearing grape vines. All but a small portion of the remainder is in 11-year-old full bearing seedling orange trees.

This estate, sightly and well situated, noted for the care it has always had, with high, level ground, way above any possible overflow, is the gem of the city.

The scenery in every direction is of great extent and beauty. Situated 2½ miles south of the Postoffice, on the chief thoroughfare of Los Angeles, directly in a line with the heavy or more valuable business growth of the city. No other street contains such valuable property. This fact is most important and should be remembered by those looking for future rise of values. But ten minutes' drive north of this site, on the same street, lots of same size sell for $2000 each.

TERMS—Cash; or, $50 cash, $95 in 1 month, $15 in 2 months, $10 in 3 months and every month thereafter until $250 is paid.

Subscriptions will be received at above rates direct by the owner, whose responsibility is of the highest class.

A meeting of all subscribers will be held on or about July 31, 1886, for the purpose of selecting the lots subscribed for. At this meeting a committee of three will be appointed by the subscribers. The name of every subscriber will then be read aloud from written slips of paper, which will then be placed in a suitable box from which, when all the names are placed therein, will be drawn by the committee, one name at one time. The name, when read aloud, permits its owner to select the best lot from the entire number unchosen.

A deed will then be made out, and the subscriber can take immediate possession. The deed to remain in the owner's hands until the full $250, the price of the lot, shall be paid. To give every subscriber a fair chance, one name is entitled to select not more than one lot containing a dwelling house, nor is one name entitled to select more than one-half the lots that name subscribes for either on New Main or San Pedro streets, except in case of two lots only in one name. These dwellings are to be beautiful in design, ten in number, and strictly first class in every respect; complete in all appointments, and ready for occupancy without any additional expense. Their cost of construction is a comparatively large figure. Plans and designs may be seen at our office, J. M. BATCHELOR & CO., Real Estate, Auctioneers, 236 N. Main street, where the subscriptions are now received. Maps to be had and every information on application.

The Main street horse-car line has already arranged to go to the corner of Main and Jefferson streets, within five minutes' walk of the tract, and will be extended to pass the tract on demand of a sufficient number of new residents.

A second horse-car line is projected to pass within a block of the entire east side of the tract, which extends nearly one mile on San Pedro street. Also the main line of Col. Howland's Electric Railroad will run either past the entire tract on San Pedro street or within a parallel block, on its way out of the city. The Santa Monica Railroad has now a flag station within five minutes' walk of the tract, so there will be no lack of conveyance to and from the center of the city. The water on the ground is of the best quality. It can be tested at the laborers' house on San Pedro side of the estate. Water will be piped from the city mains as soon as there is a sufficient demand.

The property lies close by the University of Southern California, affording a first-class education for the young, within easy walking distance.

Teams leave Baker Block daily, including Sundays, at 9:30 a. m., 12:30 p. m. and 3 p. m. Fare 5 cents.

J. M. BATCHELOR & CO.,
Real Estate, Auctioneers, 236 N. Main Street, Baker Block.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE TIMES,
Los ANGELES, Thursday, June 10.

New Honey continues to come in very freely, but few dealers and no speculators are inclined to buy in the present uncertainty as to the amount of this season's yield. Sales, in fact, are too few to settle prices, but most transactions are at very low rates, from 4@1¼ cents for good and 2¼@3 cents for inferior, while some small lots of mountain sage, first extraction, bring 5 cents, but are generally held for fancy prices. It is known that this year's yield will be large and of good quality, as against a small yield of inferior quality last year, but beyond this there is a lack of definite information as to the extent of product and demand, which causes speculators to stand aloof.

The Poultry market is quiet, and the tendency toward lower prices, especially for Broilers. Dealers complain that most of the young fowls now sent to market are too young to be sold at fair rates. Turkeys are lower, and hard of sale.

Good new Potatoes are only fairly plentiful. The supply this season is much smaller than it was at this time last year. They find ready sale at 75c for the varieties, while the best bring 90 cents to $1.

Eggs are in moderate supply and good demand. The Eastern Eggs, which were crowded into the market here recently, have about disappeared. The experiment of sending them here was not a success. Los Angeles people, as a rule, want the best, and Eastern Eggs of uncertain age were decidedly unpopular, even at the reduced rates at which they were sold.

There is an active demand for good Butter, the supply being rather limited. Los Angeles county ought to be one of the best dairy counties in the State, yet the greater part of the good Butter consumed here comes from the north, notwithstanding the fact that as good an article is made in this county as in any part of the State. The difficulty in inducing people to use the home product arises chiefly from the inferior manner in which much of it is put up for the market. Each dairyman puts up his Butter in his own way, and that way, with many is a very poor one, especially for the pockets of the dairyman. The Butter itself may be first class—generally is—but when it comes to the commission merchant in rolls wrapped in colored cloths, whose tints have stained the Butter like Jacob's coat, or when it is put up in parcels of irregular size and uninviting appearance, good prices cannot be obtained, and to get rid of it the dealer sells it for cooking Butter at 10@12c per roll, although in quality and all except appearance it is fully equal to the northern creamery products, which brings 37½ cents. The establishment of creameries in this country would be boon for its dairymen, as the product would come to market with that uniformity of color, quality, flavor, weight and attractiveness which are essential to good prices.

The stock market opened irregular, with prices generally within ⅛ to ¼ per cent. of last evening's closing figures. This was followed in turn by a dull and heavy tone, lasting till the close.

CONSUMPTION.
From consumers, "to waste away," usually applied to the advanced stage of lung disease.
The following are prominent symptoms in the first stage, and wherever any of them do exist a thorough examination should always be made, with a view to arresting the disease if shown to exist: There is usually a sensation of weariness upon little exertion, a disposition to remain passive and idle, despondency, often from no apparent cause, a peculiar sensitiveness to the effect of cold, and a breathlessness upon moving quickly or descending a hill or stairs, a slight hacking cough, with or without expectoration, exciting suspicion upon slight occasions, flying pains through the chest or back, or under the shoulder blades. The symptoms are more noticeable toward or during the night; slight fever in the afternoon; cold feet and hands, or in many cases blue lividity of the lips and roots of the finger nails.
Consumption or tubercular consumption is a common form of lung disease. The progress is slow, but if left to itself no less sure, it usually begins with a dry cough. At first these tubercles are exceedingly minute the patient not at all suspecting their presence. Gradually they develop into more active disease, and then follows the train of symptoms which leaves no doubt as to its true character. Sometimes spitting of blood or slight streaks in the mucus is the first indication of tubercular deposit or it may be a chilly sensation in the back, followed by more or less heat in the palms of the hands, or an afternoon flush of the cheeks. The slow and gradual inroads of this form of consumption leave the stomach and appetite undisturbed for a considerable time. Finally, however, hectic fever and night sweats supervene, preceded by diarrhea. Then the loss of flesh and strength becomes rapid, the chest contracts, the features sharp n, the eye attains an unusual brilliancy, and the patient begins to realize that he is in the last stage of confirmed constitutional consumption.
It is when the disease is in the first stage that it should be eradicated, before the cough sets in, or the expectoration of mucus, and before the tubercular have softened. The inhalations will thus completely absorb every tubercle in the lungs, and thus radically destroy that hereditary development of tubercular consumption.
Consultation free and prices within the reach of all.
The most best of references given from those already cured.
Those who desire to consult me in regard to their cases should either call at the office for an examination, but if impossible to visit the office personally, may write for List of Questions and circular, both of which will be sent free of charge. Address

LANSING HUNT,

The Determined Suicide of May 25th.

LIGHT AS TO HIS FAMILY AND FRIENDS.

A Texas Wife was Inclined to Take a Gloomy View of Things—Some Letters.

Letters received here show that Lansing Hunt, who finally succeeded, May 25, in his determined efforts at suicide, has a brother-in-law in Terrell, Texas—S. A. Shortridge, husband of the Mrs. Belle Shortridge to whom Hunt referred in the farewell note found upon his body. Mr. Shortridge says that last fall Lansing deeded his interest in the Wm. H. Hunt estate to Mrs. S. [It will be remembered that in his note Hunt promised this interest to a Mrs. Otto of this city]. Mr. Shortridge also sent the following statement:

"Being a friend and kinsman of Lansing Hunt, whose death occurred in Los Angeles, May 25, 1886, I feel it my duty to say something of his life and character. He was a son of Col. W. H. Hunt, a prominent and honored citizen of Texas, who was a Colonel in the war of the Republic and Mexico. Lansing Hunt was born February 8, 1841, in Fannin county, Texas, where he resided up to ten years ago, and was considered over the average of young men in sobriety and integrity of character. Ever since he left Texas he has been in constant correspondence with his sister, Mrs. Belle Shortridge, the person referred to in note found on his body, and his recent letters have all been cheerful, hopeful and affectionate, and contained promises that he would yield to our entreaties to come home and spend the remainder of his days with his family and the friends of his boyhood. I am in position to know that it was neither poverty nor his own unworthiness that caused his death, but I and his family feel confident that it was the result of some late trouble or disappointment of the nature of which we stand in complete ignorance at present."

A couple of letters from Hunt to his sister were also sent. Both were written from Prescott, A. T. One, dated January 2, '85, refers to some disappointment, over which he had "felt every way that anybody could feel—mad, sad, remorseful, revengeful, ashamed, discouraged." At the time of writing, however, he said he felt better, and was comfortably fixed. He referred to the subject of marriage in a casual way, and promised to be home in May. The second letter is as follows:

"Prescott, A. T., April 12, 1886.

"DEAR SISTER: I have been waiting patiently for a letter from you a long time, so concluded to write again. As usual, everything is dull, and the old saying, 'no news,' Am well, and have very little work to do, as business is so bad. Belle, write now more than you do. It used to be just the reverse. How are you making it with the tarnal land business? Belle can not give me head or tail of it. Did Mr. S. collect that $250 you spoke of? I came near making a trade on the strength of getting it. If I had, you see I would have been in a nice fix now. I wonder if I could lump my interest off to Mr. S. or any one else. 'Tis a nuisance the way it is. You see last summer I spent a small sum ($27) twenty-seven dollars, in trying to get things in shape so I could realize something, but have failed. It seems I had just as well spend the money or burnt it, I expect. I am expecting my wages to be reduced every day, and if so will not stand it, but quit and go and try to do better, so would like to know something definite in regard to these notes. Understand me, now, I am not finding fault with you or Mr. S., but with fate, as Belle calls it. I know you have both done all in your power to get out of the terrible tangle of years of neglect. Do you know the whereabouts of Aunt Bela or any of the children? The reason I ask, I have a lady friend who intends visiting Los Angeles before long, and she as all women would like to see some of my kin—curiosity, you know. How are Syl and Emma and all the Brenham folks? We had another [storm] last night; eight inches; has snowed all day to-day, too, but melted as it fell. Peach trees in bloom, too; looks so odd, but we can[not] tell what will happen in this Bob Ingersoll world now-a-days. Be sure to write soon. Will or Emma rather got the buttons I sent them; but not the ring, [which] was stolen, I presume. With much love, your brother, LANSING HUNT."

Six weeks later the unfortunate young man ended his life, which his letters show to have been a gloomy and morbid one.

Mr. Shortridge inclosed a draft to defray the funeral expenses, and ordered a plain marble shaft for the suicide's grave.

FIVE DOLLARS

In What it Cost Villa for Abusing His Cow.

David Villa, of Johnson street, East Los Angeles, was up before Justice Austin yesterday, on complaint of the Humane Society, for torturing a cow. C. E. Stephens, a neighbor, testified that on Sunday morning Villa struck his cow over the head violently with a hatchet. He also tied her head and foot close together, and left her in this uncomfortable plight from 6 a. m. to 5 or 6 p. m., without food or water. Her head was cut by the wire with which she was tied. The cow was not at all vicious. Officer Tyler testified that he was called to the spot at 6 p. m., and found the cow with her foot and head tied so that she could not get them more than 16 inches apart. She was also fastened to a stake. Villa's excuse was that the cow ran after he had pounded her on the[illegible] with a hatchet. Justice Austin fined Villa $5, at the same time giving him a severe lecture on his inhumanity. He told him that if he (Villa) were not so poor, the fine would be much heavier. Villa paid his fine.

Nothing to Say as Yet.

In answer to a TIMES man's queries yesterday, I. W. Hellman stated that there was as yet nothing to be said of the rumored intention to put up a fine hotel on the property which fronts 120 ft. each on Main and New High streets, and 160 feet on Sonora. Yes, it was true that the tenants have been given notice to quit, but that might simply mean that the buildings are to be repaired.

Roebe-Thornton.

There was a quiet wedding at the residence of Under-Sheriff A. M. Thornton, Wednesday evening, the interesting service being performed by Rev. M. J. Wells. Miss Nellie M. Thornton, the captain's charming daughter, and Jerome Beebe, a young gentleman of Pasadena, were the happy parties-in-chief to the consolidation.

Help—Highland Park.

We hope to see all the friends of the University of California attend the great sale this day, and help us out. These lots, a long time ago, were presented to the university by Geo. W. Morgan, Esq., and they are the best and the cream of the tract. Cars leave the Pasadena depot at 10 o'clock. John C. Bell, the auctioneer, sells at 11 o'clock. Twenty-five cents, round trip.

Opium Fiends.

Officer Dalton discovered Jesus Montalbo and Charles Watson smoking opium in the rear of 127 Upper Main street, last evening. He summoned Officer Bosqui, and between them, by able strategy, they surrounded and captured the two smokers, who were locked up in default of bail.

LOCAL MATTERS.

FOR TOO LATE.

The Transportation Committee Appoints a Crocker.

The following letter, sent to Vice-President Crocker, of the Southern Pacific Railroad, by the Committee on Transportation for the State Republican Convention, is self-explanatory:

HEADQUARTERS, ENTERTAINMENT OF REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION,
LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 10, '86.

Chas. F. Crocker, Esq., Vice-President of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, San Francisco, Cal.—DEAR SIR: You are aware of the fact that the Republican State Convention will meet in this city on the 25th day of August next.

More than one hundred citizens of Southern California, whose names appear on the other side of this sheet [the list of committees already published in the TIMES] and will sufficiently indicate to you their standing and influence, have been organized into committees to make arrangements for the convention.

We have been selected as a committee to arrange for the transportation of delegates.

It is desirable to make this a convention of delegates, not of proxies. Whether this can be done or not, rests wholly with your corporation and turns upon the single question of transportation.

The city of Los Angeles pays to your corporation more money than any other city in the State except San Francisco; and as this is an exceptional occasion, we might claim the concession we ask on that ground alone, but we base our request upon the broader ground of public policy.

We want to bring the delegates from San Francisco, Sacramento, and Stockton and return for $10 each, or $15 including their sleeping car accommodations; and we respectfully ask you to make us that rate for the round trip for the delegates to the convention. Very respectfully,

E. F. SPENCE, Chairman.
W. H. SEAMANS,
H. C. STOLER,
L. E. MOSHER,
W. C. FURREY,
S. J. MATHEWS.

Mr. Crank being out of town, his signature could not be obtained.

The W. C. T. U. Wrestling with the Building Question.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. were full of business yesterday afternoon, at their regular meeting. Reports from different departments of work—the Sunday school, prison, and suggestions for work among printers—all full of interest. Mrs. Hutchinson was elected to assist Mother Ransome in her prison work. The increasing use of tobacco among miners was freely discussed, and steps will be taken to prohibit, if possible, the sale of it to children. The ladies reported, also, some handsome donations to the building fund. They propose to raise $10,000 inside of one month. The following persons were put on committees for subscriptions: Mesdames Baxter, More, Blanchard, Dorsey, Dunham, Dean.

Resolutions were passed asking the G. A. R., at their encampment this summer, to abstain from the use of intoxicants, a copy of which is given below:

TEMPERANCE RESOLUTIONS.

WHEREAS, It is understood to be the general custom of the G. A. R. at their National encampments to use wines and liquors, and that it is now seen beyond doubt in the blaze of modern science that intoxicants are poisonous alike to the body, brain and morals, and are the source of untold evil and crime; therefore,

Resolved, That we, the Los Angeles W. C. T. U., a band of patriotic women, do beg of the Grand Army of the Republic to dispense with the use of intoxicating drinks at their various headquarters at their reunion this summer in San Francisco.

We make this earnest and urgent appeal under the belief that the heroes who bore our flag to victory and saved the country in the late sanguinary war, will, when called on, by their powerful example, strike one more blow for "God, home, and native land."

H. MARIA MCFERRON,
ALICE BALDWIN,
Committee.

NEIGHBORING NOTES.

Ventura.

Post-Tropic.]

The Board of Supervisors have concluded to let Colton vote on incorporation.

A Sunday excursion train to Oceanside will soon be put on by the California Southern.

A new local train will be started in a few days between Colton and San Bernardino, making two trips a day.

Several boys stealing a ride on the line of the motor road on a hand-car were thrown off by the car jumping the track, and received some bad bruises.

The Semi-Tropic brings forward the name of T. H. Eckles, of Calico, as Republican candidate for Assemblyman. John Worth, of Riverside, has been mentioned, but thinks he'd rather be excused.

Col. R. W. Bolton, of the motor road, informs us that the road will probably be in running order by the 1st of July. He is expecting the arrival of the rolling-stock by that time, and if it is not delayed, the cars will be going all right by the 1st of July.

The freight traffic seems to be picking up wonderfully over the California Southern railroad, and particularly between this point and San Diego. Double-header trains are now the rule, and not the exception, as formerly, between Colton and San Diego.

Semi-Tropic, June 8th.]

Last evening we counted five passenger trains entering Colton within the space of half an hour, coming from the four cardinal points of the compass. The same thing can be observed several times every day, at longer intervals.

Major W. H. Ballache goes to Los Angeles in a day or two in the interest of that excellent advertising paper, the Atlantic and Pacific and California Southern Railroad Daily Railroad Advertiser.

San Bernardino.

San Bernardino Index, June 9.]

Counterfeit greenbacks are in circulation in the towns north of us.

The Harry Lacy Company is playing the Planter's Wife at the Opera House.

The Southern Pacific Railway Company is going ahead with its freight depot.

About 7 o'clock this morning, at his ranch five miles north of this place, Warren Forbes was bitten by a rattlesnake on his right hand. Mr. Forbes was irrigating a small garden patch, and in stooping down at the ditch, put his hand down into the weeds to remove a clod of dirt to turn the stream, when the venomous reptile fastened its poisonous fangs in his flesh. Chas Rockoff, a neighbor, brought the afflicted man into town, and Drs. Campbell and Collins attended to him. Though suffering considerable pain, the man is considered out of danger by his physicians.

San Bernardino.

Index, June 8th.]

Byron Waters is having the material for another brick building moved to the lot adjoining his new office on Court street.

Good white labor is very scarce, and for section work on the railroads demands $2 a day. The Southern Pacific company are said to be planning to bring a lot of genuine Arabs from somewhere to work the sections on the desert.

The Daily Evening Semi-Tropic, of Colton, has appeared in an enlarged form. It is now a neat looking six-column paper, brimful of interesting reading matter.

Times.]

The question of the route of the dummy road to Colton and Riverside is before the Supervisors.

San Diego.

Union, 8th.]

The Mexican man-of-war Juarez departs to-day for Guaymas, after quite a long stay in San Diego harbor.

It is believed that the population of San Diego by next spring will warrant incorporation as a city of the fourth class, which includes cities with a population of more than 10,000 and not exceeding 15,000. Present indications certainly warrant this belief. The present population of San Diego is put at 6200.—[ED. TIMES.

The United States steamer Ranger departs to-day for the Southern coast to complete the surveys now under way. It is thought she will complete this work and return here in about five weeks, en route for Mare Island navy yard, where she will be docked and thoroughly overhauled during the summer.

Sun.]

It is given out that a new telegraph line for the Western Union will shortly be put in operation between Los Angeles and San Diego, by the way of Colton, to the end that this city may have a more effective service. It is certainly needed.

San Diegan.]

An examination of the real estate sales reported in the San Diegan from January 1st to May 1st aggregate over $1,000,000.

The Sun comes out with the announcement that W. W. Bowers, of that city, is the for hooming candidate of the Republicans for State Senator for San Bernardino and San Diego counties.

Ontario.

Record, 9.]

Fred Bisbee, of Los Angeles, spent Sunday visiting friends in Ontario.

W. T. English, Esq., one of Los Angeles' able young attorneys, was in Ontario last week on a visit to his sister, Mrs. C. F. Chaffey.

F. L. Alles, of the Rural Californian, spent Sunday and Monday on his place in Ontario.

There is a good prospect for the extension of Euclid avenue to the Santa Ana river, viewers having been appointed.

Ontario's college is too young yet to boast a commencement, but the college authorities are planning for some interesting exercises on Friday, June 18th, at the close of the school year. There will be examinations in the forenoon, conducted by the teachers, assisted by a committee representing the Regents and citizens. In the afternoon there will be some literary exercises by the students, followed by an address. After this there will be a collation, the trustees having contributed $50 for this purpose. In the evening the students will have full swing, and will entertain their young friends with some music and a social. Judge Widney and other trustees and representatives of the University of Southern California, of which our college is a branch, will be down.

Pomona.

Progress.]

Cy. Burdick has completed the census of this school district. The result foots up 515 children of school age, against 445 last year.

From one to five fine brick blocks are in contemplation in Pomona. They will be built during the summer.

Times-Courier.]

The old "Hotel de Brown" has been switched back, and work on the foundation for the "Brown block" has begun. This three-story hotel will be open to the public by September 1st.

The grounds of the Hotel Palomares are fast improving in appearance under the care of D. N. Burritt.

Efforts are being made by property owners on Second street to displace the wooden houses with brick business houses.

Nearly $250 has been subscribed for the improvement of Pomona's new park. Good for the enterprise of the citizens.

Cucamonga.

HOW MAIN STREET LAND

Is Given Away.

Fourteen-year-old seedling orange trees have an auction value; $15 each is an extremely low figure. No farmer would contract to grow them for that sum. It would not begin to pay him for his labor. In fact he would ridicule such an offer. Twelve trees to a 50x119 foot lot at that price would equal $180. The city improvements, such as ten beautiful dwellings, heavy plank walks, electric lights, etc., nearly exhaust the difference between $180 and $250, the price of each lot on the Co-operative Nursery Tract. The owner therefore asks less than cost of improvements, the land is thrown in free. This is why the offer of the Co-operative Tract is the lowest ever made in this city. There is not a capitalist in Los Angeles who would agree to furnish like improvements for $250, that is, contract to take new land and put on it what we offer, waiting 14 years for his money.

So, practically a fine and sightly piece of land is given away without charge. Examine this offer every way you choose, realize the tract's location, in a direct line with the city's growth, on the highest priced street we have, you may then understand that a small investment at our figures will return you many fold increase within a very few years.

There is not a flaw of any kind in the property; every detail is perfect, including the title. This is a forced sale. Otherwise no such price would be made. The reason is explained by the managers.

Many subscribers have already realized what we say; a large proportion of the lots are already sold. The remainder are already taked, if we can only rely on the promises of apparently sincere people. Five years hence this tract will be as near the city proper as Fourth and Main are now. What surer investment can one make. No other securities can begin to give like returns. Look around the cities in the United States. How many of their wealthy inhabitants became wealthy by real estate investments? Look at the United States statistics. What is the growing wealth of our country? Nine-tenths and more are composed of real estate. Then do you know anybody who has not largely profited themselves by investments in real estate in Los Angeles? We do not. Many have become rich thereby. Don't hesitate, but invest a little. Our installments permit you to advantage yourself with slight or no inconvenience.

Call for particulars, maps, etc., on J. M. Batchelor & Co., managers, 236 N. Main st, Baker Block. Open Saturday evenings from 7 to 8:30 o'clock.

THE CITY CENTER TRACT.

151 lots at $300 each. Size of lots 60x136. First payment, $30; monthly payments, $20, without interest.

Elegant improvements Made by the Company without Cost to the Lot-Holders—four Villa Residences to be Erected and to go with the Lots Without Additional Charge—First-Class Plank Walks on all the Streets—Mains, with Electric Lights, Free for One Year—The Distribution of the Lots will be Made on the 4th of October, 1886, on the Same Plan as that of the Child's Tract and the Urmston Tract, Both Inaugurated by this Company Under the Homestead Law.

THIS SPLENDID TRACT is in the very heart of Los Angeles, but one block from Pearl street, and situated on Eleventh, Twelfth and Pico streets, adjoining on the latter street the elegant grounds and mansion of Mrs. Foreman.

THE HOWLAND ELECTRIC MOTOR RAILWAY is now an assured fact on Pico street; the rails are on way here, and the cars will be running in sixty days.

The price of these lots is exactly one-half of the sum asked for those adjoining on the east, and which are unimproved.

The success of the Homesteads of the Southern California Land Company is strictly owing to the low rate at which they place their properties before the public, and the fact that they offer only first-class City locations. The high prices asked by middle men for lots are avoided. The Company desire to see the subscribers to these properties gain a handsome profit after the division of the Homesteads.

The sale of this Tract is on the Homestead plan (see Law of 1862), as the
